Privacy Policy

At The Young Republic, we care about and protect our stakeholders’ privacy. Here we give you an overview of how we store and process your personal data. For further questions, please contact us at info@theyoungrepublic.org

What is personal data and why do we collect it?
Personal data is information that allows an individual to be identified. Examples of such information are names, addresses, email addresses and phone numbers. The Young Republic does not collect sensitive data from its users such as religious or political views or health data.

In order to perform any social activity, The Young Republic needs to collect data. We store all personal data lawfully and never collect more data than necessary to fulfill our commitments.

We may use your personal data for information purposes such as the sharing of our newsletter or of information on our events we think might interest you. However, you may at any time request that we cease sending our updates and information to you, which can be done by contacting us via email.

What data does The Young Republic collect?

- Contact details (name, address, email address, and telephone number);
- Data about your motivations and experiences;
- Data about which events you participated in and when.

How long does The Young Republic store your data?
Personal data will be processed until the consent is withdrawn.

Does The Young Republic disclose the data to any other party?
The Young Republic is an NGO registered in Sweden, but does work on the European level and has members in other EU countries. This is why we may have to transmit your personal data to other EU actors for the reporting purposes. If this is done, The Young Republic is responsible for ensuring that your personal data is protected. We may also disclose your data, if compulsory legislation exists about his, e.g., to an authority. The Young Republic never sells your data to a third party.
Your Rights
You have a right to request access to what data is stored about you at The Young Republic. We will disclose this data within one month from the date on which you submitted your request. This period may be extended by up to two months if there are grounds for this; The Young Republic is then responsible to inform you in case of the latter. The data will be provided to you free of charge.

If you are no longer interested in our events or content, you also have the right to request that we cease all storage of your personal data; if this happens, you will be completely erased from our records (unless compelling reasons exist due to other legislation).

If you, as a data subject, believe that The Young Republic does not meet these requirements, you are entitled to lodge a complaint with the authority responsible for our compliance with the law. In this case, the supervisory authority is the Swedish Data Protection Agency.
